The Condition of Things In and About Richmond.

As Lively a Fight There as Anywhere in

Gen. Wickham and the Way in Which He Disappointed and Perplexed His Friends.

The News from Staunton-A Great Speech from a Great Speaker.

Special Letter. RICHMOND, VA., Aug. 27.-The chairman of the democratic executive committee having prepared and had published a list of appointments for state canvassers, the leaders of this faction will take the stump in the different sections of the state this week, and proceed "to enlighten the people"-a quotation which has assumed a stereotyped form-upon the issues of the day.

The campaign, it can be said, actually be gins to-day, for from this time until the fifth of November there will be on hand at every county court house on court day speakers representing all factions, including even the straightouts. The great central figure in the list of democratic speakers is Parson John E. Massey. His name is the most conspicuous of them all, and he has been assigned to work in counties where the bourbons will have to do some tall talking in order to explain sat-isfactorily certain democratic inconsistencies.

isfactorily certain democratic inconsistencies. The parson, strange to say, is not booked for big Richmond city, but it is understood that he will speak here more than once between now and the day of election. When he was on the other side of the political fence the parson loomed up as a martyr. It was when he spoke in front of the St. Claire hotel. What made this meeting so interesting was the number of Irish potatoes, apples, and eggs of an uncertain age that flew and sailed around the speaker's head whenever he would send out well worded sentences to the vast crowd. The parson has since won the vast crowd. The parson has since won the good will, if not the affections, of the hotblooded young democrats who hurled epithets and eggs at him then, and it is hardly probable that the "political pulpiteer," as the democrats formerly called him, will meet with such as anxied vacanting in Richmond. with such an unkind reception in Richmond again. To-morrow the democrats of the Chesterfield district will hold a convention at Maiden's Adventure, on the Alleghany road, to nominate a candidate for the senate. This is one of the most important senatorial districts in the state, and much money will be spent there by the democrats. The coalition nominee is Alexander Sims, a successful farmer and very popular citizen of Chesterfield. Samuel F. Maddox claims to be the coalition nominee, but the coalitionists don't seem to look at it in the same light, and Madox has reached out for the straightout vote to cheer his drooping spirits. An excursion train will run from Richmond tomorrow to carry the delegates to the convention, and a lot of Richmond orators, each wound up for an "hour's speech, will accompany the delegates, who will do the voting while the visitors from Richmond will give tone and dignity to the occasion. will give tone and dignity to the occasion. The campaign will be as warm within an area of twenty-five miles from Richmond as anywhere else in the state. This space takes in the Hanover district, where the hottest fight will be made. Col. A. W. Jones, the reseignster or coalition nominee, will speak at Ashland Thursday, and it is expected that his opponent, Gen. Wickham, the straightout leader nominated by the democrats, will be on hand. A tremendous crowd will be present. Wickham, it will be remembered, was sadly left in the joint discussion between him and Col. Jones a few days ago. The general had everything against him. He is no speaker, and it was a surprise to some to see him champion a cause which has no argument against Col. Jones, who is a speaker and debater of power and ability. The nomination of Gen. Wickham by the democrats is being used by the readjusters of the valley and and Col. Jones a few days ago. The general had everything against him. He is no speaker, and it was a surprise to some to see him champion a cause which has no argument against Col. Jones, who is a speaker and debater of power and ability. The nomination of Gen. Wickham by the democrats is being used by the readjusters of the valley and southwest with telling effect. The stalwart democrats in the mountain districts do not know what to think of Gen. Wickham's know what to think of Gen. Wickham's nomination by their party, and the news comes rushing from the mountain gorges of Patrick, Floyd, Russell, and the whole southwest that they are weakening, and have at last arrived at the conclusion that transfer and have at last arrived at the conclusion that the dependence of a corrupt bargain. The character of all good citizens should be upheld by the that true democracy as given to them in days long since gone by is dead—so dead that resurrection and resuscitation are absolutely impossible. It is regarded as a remarkable coincidence that the slogan, "This way, free-men," which the democratic leaders adopted at the Lynchburg convention and sent to their followers should be east aside by the average democrat immediately after the pub-lication of the list of state canvassers. Upon Mr. Barbour, who selected the canvassers will, it is said, rest all the blame for preventing Newberry's high sounding exclamation from bringing him fame and immortality.

A great many of these organs in different sections of the country outside of Virginia have expressed their disapproval of Gen. Wick-ham's course in going over horse, foot, and dragoon to the democratic ranks, and marked dragoon to the democratic ranks, and marked copies of these papers have doubtless came under the general's eye. It is too late now for him to retrace his erring steps. There are some straighouts who condemn such a public political jump, when the general could have recomplished as much by running as a straightout candidate, for if he had done this, straighout candidate, for if he had done this, the democrats would not have made a nomination, but would have supported Wickham.

Old fourthampton will be another great-political battle field all through this campaign. This county has recently been made.

famous by the democrats giving the colored brothers a grand barbocue.

It is the first instance on record of such a thing being done by that party which claims all the wealth, intelligence, and blue blood. There is every reason to believe that a movement looking to another barbecue is on foot, since it is known that the democrats in Southampton county alone have subscribed over$1.700 for election purposes. Probably an excursion will be substituted for a barbecue, and flaming handbills announcing that the democratic party of Southampton county the democratic party of Southampton county, appreciating the aid herotofore extended them by the colored voters of the county, propose to give an excursion to the Luray caverus or Tickets for colored men, meals inclinded, free. As it requires at least three days' time to go on such an excursion, it is reasonable to suppose that all who go will either have to fly back or vote at Luray, and it will be as easy to do one as it will be to do the other.

And again, Southampton is the old home of en. Mahone, and if the democrats can by any means carry that county they will en-deavor to make political capital by loudly as-serting that Mahone was repudiated in his

The campaign is getting hotter and hotter, and this time next month the political pet in Virginia will send up such a steam of atump oratory as has never been equaled in the borders of the Old Dominion.

MASSEY AT STAUNTON.

Straunton, Va., Aug. 27.—To-day being August court day a large crowd was in attendance in answer to patriotic and political announcements. The first was to organize a remion of confederate soldiers, but for what special object does not clearly appear. There was a good crowd in attendance, but the meeting seems to have failen through, so an adjournment was effected to some future day adjournment was effected to some future day without the transaction of any business. The yeemanry were not to be disappointed, however, and the Hev. John E. Massey being present, on his way to canvass for the democratic cause in the county of Highland, was called upon for a speech. The parson evidently has a heavy burden to bear. There was an evident lack of sympathy and union. He was not in the house of his friends. He took occasion to announce that he was not after any office (oh no! not he!), and then he culegized John B. Baldwin, dead some ten years ago, and finally get adjournment was effected to some future day plaint with him. Really the senator will have to do something to relieve the reverend gentleman, or we may look out for a terrible constrophe. The rest of his speech was find a fault with Mahone and Cameron and the coored people, and the coalition generally. Nothing was heard of the great principles advocated by the democratic party—oh? where are they? The Lynchburg plaiform was not held up to the admiring gaze of the unterrified; in fact the parson was evisive and unhappy.

J. R. Tucker is booked for here Sopt. 24, and A. M. Keely, Oct. 22. If we could just have a leetle something from Wade Hampton things might wake up; as it is there is little or no life in the democratic camp.

The temperance people of Staunton propose to ask the people, by petitions, to put up candidates who, if elected, would support a local option bill in the next legislatore. Immediately the democrats cried aloud, it will never do, it will ruin us, and the democratic papers stely the democrate cried aloud, it will never do, it will ruin us, and the democratic papers of the town called upon the movers in the matter to stop, or we are ruined. And all the great reformers stopped all efforts at reform and morality, to save the great democratic party—and these are the people who claim the privilege to abuse everybody opposed to them. Save us from such a party. Howard.

ATTEMPTED OUTRAGE.

Gray Haired Man Makes an Assault

Upon an Eleven-Year-Old Girl. C. S. Ford, a blacksmith, lives at 409 New Jersey avenue northwest with his family, consisting of a wife and six children. He and his family occupy the second floor of the house, which is a large one, the rest of the building being occupied by other families. On the first floor Robert Jarboe, an aged white man, lives with his wife and five children, all of the latter being well grown. The families up to Thursday last were on the best of terms, and took a neighborly interest in each other's affairs.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Ford called at the Yesterday afternoon Mr. Ford called at the police court and swore out a warrant, charging Jarboe with having on Thursday last feloniously assaulted his daughter, Sarah Ford, aged 11 years. The alleged assault took place about 9 o'clock on the above evening. Little Sarah had gone out to play, and was returning, when, it is stated, Jarboe caught her in the hall and pulled her behind a door with intent to outrage her. A brother of little Sarah came in most opportunely and surprised Jarboe in the act. The boy told his father of the occurrence, and the little girl confirmed her brother's statement. Mr. Ford attempted to see Jarboe, but was unable to do so, for the latter evaded him at all times. Failing to see Jarboe and obtain an ex-

Failing to see Jarboe and obtain an explanation of his strange conduct, Mr. Ford determined to get satisfaction through the courts. The clerk swore out the warrant, and it was placed in the hands of the officers, who up to midnight had not found Jarboe. Jarboe is a gardener, and is said to have been guilty of other misdoings corresponding to the act now charged.

An Over Sensitive Friend of Gov Begole,

To the Eduor.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 29.—An editorial which appeared in yesterday morning's issue headed "Keep the rascals out," does great injustice to a thoroughly upright and honorable Christian man, viz., Josiah W. Begole, governor of Michigan, one of the pioneers of that state. The foundation for the editorial referred to appears to be in the fact that a bill in chancery has been filed against him charging malfeasance in the management of the estate of his deceased son, Frank C. Begole. The facts in the case are as follows: The governor gave to his son 1,000 acres of land in the state of Wiscousin, and upon the land in the state of Wisconsin, and upon the son's approaching death from consumption a few years thereafter he transferred back to his father this tract of land to be held for the exclusive benefit of his (Frank C. Begole's) children, and for this purpose it is now held be the known or the wisdom of this course is now very apparent. She Made It Warm for Him.

Between 8 and 9 o'clock last night the vicinity of Sixteenth and R streets was the scene of an exciting encounter between a man and woman, evidently man and wife. The man, who was under the influence of liquor, came down R street with a woman, and when they reached the corner of Sixand when they reached the corner of Six-teenth the wife stepped from behind a tree box and belabored her husband with a para-sol. While she was using her parasol she gave vent to a storm of tears, charging him

The woman who accompanied the man, and who was quite pretty, coolly walked off and left the husband and wife to fight it out. After tring herself out the wife caught her unfaithful spouse by the arm and dragged him to his home "away from that hussy," who was disappearing down the street.
